Another Soldier Helps In Manufacture Of Duck

Seven Now Working In Local Plants

Bringing total of work-furloughed soldiers helping with production of much-needed cotton duck in local plants to seven is Cpl. Alfred Boudreaux from Ft. Dix, N. J., who began work at Proximity last week, according to Lt. Fred M. Cox, officer in charge of cotton duck promotion here.

Because of critical need for such material, the army is arranging 90-day furloughts for limited service soldiers, experienced in textiles, to work in cotton mills throughout the country. Alhough he cannot predict any definite figures as to the number of soldiers eventually to be employed here, Lt. Cox stated that seven now working are expected to be only the beginning.

Soldiers chosen to work in mills are those who had civilian experience as loom fixers, weavers, doffers or section men. They maintain their technical army status and work in uniforms or fatigue clothes and are under military discipline during the 90-day work furlough.

Sgt. Cleo Gerringer Awarded Bronze Star

TS. Clo E. Gerringer, son of Mrs. J. F. Gerringer, Gibsonville and husband of Mrs. Ruth Gerringer, 1910 Poplar street, was awarded the Bronze Star medal for "meritorious achievement," November 11, 1944.

According to the citation, "He was a member of a five-man crew which braved heavy mortor and small arms fire to remove enemy demolitions from a bridge and check aproaches for mines. Their courageous action prevented the destruction of the bridge and enabled our force to gain a bridgehead on the other side of the swollen river."

Entering the service in March 1942, Sgt. Gerringer received training at Camp Chaffee, Ark., and was sent overseas February, 1944.

Funeral Service Held For Mrs. Rhoda Manley

Funeral service for Mrs. Rhoda Virginia Jones Manley, who died last Friday night at her home, 1923 Church street, after an illness of three years, was held Sunday afternoon at Revolution Baptist church. Officiating ministers were the pastor, Rev. S. R. Riddle, Rev. C. W. Russell, pastor of Newlin Street Methodist church, and Rev. M. A. Pollard, pastor of Palm Street Christian church. Interment was in Green Hill cemetery.

Native of Washington county, Mrs. Manley had made her home in Guilford county for 35 years. She was a member of Revolution Baptist church, Revolution chapter of Sons and Daughters of Liberty and Revolution Pocahontas lodge.

Surviving are her husband, N. B. Manley; one step-son, J. W. Manley, Greenville, S. C.; an adopted daughter, Mrs. Mabel Rich, of the home; three brothers, J. H., E. L., and Kelley Jones, all of Greensboro; three sisters, Mrs. Robert Johnson, High Point road, Mrs. Janie Mendenhall and Mrs. J. H. Campbell, both of Greensboro, and one grandchild.

Pallbearers were: L. L. Carter, Ben Williamson, M. A. Hifman, T. H. Young, W. L. Newman and M. P. Talton.

Singing Convention To Be Held Sunday

Regular Guilford county Gospel Singing convention will be held Sunday, January 21. Program will begin with a broadcast over WBIG from 12:30 to 1:15 p.m. and will continue at Bessemer high school at two o'clock.

Singers are expected from Mount Airy, Winston-Salem, Thomasville, High Point, Randleman and Burlington. Many local singers will take part.

"In case of an overflow crowd, we will alternate with the singers at the Methodist and Presbyterian churches. If you were turned away at our last convention, as many were for even lack of standing room about the doors; do not stay away Sunday, for we hope to be able to seat everyone with the use of the Presbyterian church. The public is cordially invited to attend." stated Carl Ham, president.

Worker Writes Letter Praising Local Mills

An unsolicited letter has been turned in to this paper by Walter E. Moore who writes of his appreciation to Cone mills for what they have meant to him since he began work in 1901 at Proximity mills.

"My first job," states Moore, "was to sweep the spinning room and to carry water: I made fifty cents per night working twelve hours a night. Today that seems very small, but the cost of living was not as great as it is now.

"I want to pay my respects to Cone mills. I have never been sorry I came here."

Women's Swimming Classes Continue

Due to demand for swimming classes for girls and women, arrangements have been made for their continuation throughout the winter. A new schedule has been announced by women's athletic director, Mrs. Robbie Screen, which offers half time in the pool and the other half in the gym.

Mrs. Screen states, "For children whose parents would rather they not swim during the winter, gym periods will be arranged from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. at both White Oak and Proximity Y.'s." For evening classes the pool will be available for any groups of women and girls over sixteen who wish to swim or improve their technique."

Girl Scouts are already using gym and swimming periods to work off sports badges and swimming points.

Classes formerly ended in November.

Proximity Monogram Club Initiates New Members

School Group Requires Scholarship, Character

Meeting required standards of scholarship and conduct, 18 students at Proximity school were chosen to become members of the school's Monogram club and were tapped at special candlelight initiation service, Wednesday, January 10, in the auditorium. WASHINGTON SNAPSHOTS

BY JAMES PRESTON

Congress is giving a favorable reception to War Mobilizer Byrnes' proposals for tax revisions after the fall of Germany. Influential members of both parties agree that business and industry should have prompt postwar tax relief so that they may carry out their mission of providing more jobs and greater security for all Americans.

Byrnes proposed: (1) to increase the specific exemption from excess profits taxes from $10,000 to $25,000; (2) to allow a larger tax deduction for deterioration in the early life of business and industrial facilities; (3) to release part of the cash tied up in corporation refund and excess profit refund bonds as soon as the war ends in Europe . . .

Farmers had net income of more than 13 billions in 1944 after deducting production expenses, according to preliminary estimates. The total was more than 50 per cent larger than all corporation net income, which aggregated about eight billions.

Deposits of 13 billion dollars in mutual savings banks also reflect wartime prosperity. The banks are in the strongest position of their 128-year history. Depositors have good-sized reserves to launch them in the postwar era, when industry is pledged to support expanded production, full and free competition, fair wages, and more and better jobs for all.

Every member is urged to be present at this meeting and anyone interested in becoming a member is cordially invited to come.

Points On Rationing

GASOLINE

No. 14 coupons in the new A book are good for four gallons each. No 13 coupons are no longer valid. The mileage ration record instead of the old tire inspection record must be presented in applying for gasoline ration. It is also necessary for service men on furlough to bring the mileage record of the car in which the gas is to be used.

TIRES

All manufacturers of tires were requested last week by the government to increase production of small truck tires for the army. This automatically affects the production of passenger tires which, in turn reduces the quota of the war price and rationing board. This precludes the possibility of civilians getting adequate tires in the immediate future. The tire picture is more serious than it was a year ago; therefore, the need for consrvation and recapping is still prevalent.

FUEL OIL

Period 1 coupons for the new 1944-1945 heating season are now valid and have no expiration date. Periods 2 and 3 are valid from December 18.

SUGAR

All sugar stamps that have been valid up to date with the exception of No. 34 in war ration book 4 are no longer valid. This includes canning sugar coupons and certificates.

MEATS AND FATS

Red stamps Q-5, R-5 and S-5 in ration book 4 are good for 10 points each. T-5 through X-5 become valid December 31 for 10 points each. Point value on creamery butter is 24 points—country butter 12 points.

PROCESSED FOODS

Blue stamps X-5, Y-5, Z-5, A-2 and B-2, in ration book 4 are good for 10 points each. C-2 through G-2 became valid January 1.

SHOES

Airplane stamps Nos. 1, 2 and 3 in ration book No. 3 are good indefinitely.

STOVES

Only oil and gas heating and cooking stoves are now rationed.

Tough Plastic Thin As Hair

Newest addition to the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., family of plastics is a film which can be made thin as a hair and soft and flexible as fine cloth, yet comparable in strength to metals.

Already busy in dozens of war jobs, the film will be used in postwar to make such items as raincoats so light and thin they'll fit into a handbag; lampshades that can be cleaned with soap and water; aprons that can be washed and dried like dishes; and portable bathtubs that can be folded like army cots.

The Proposed National Service Law

The United States Congress has a most vital decision to make. The manpower situation is so critical that it is thought by top-ranking members of the armed services and evidently by the President himself that the United States should have a full National Service Law.

Our first responsibility is to win the war. There is no disunity in respect to that. In the words of many spokesmen, our second responsibility is to win the peace. There are many ideas as to just what winning the peace means. From an international standpoint, the views are wide and divergent. However, the main objective seems to be winning the peace means the prevention of future wars. Domestically, however, there is not a meeting of minds, and the proposed National Service Law is assuredly involved.

A peace which will bring to this country total regimentation under government dictatorship certainly is not a worthwhile goal and would certainly be a terrible by-product of winning the war.

We definitely feel that an improved method of diverting workers from unessential occupations to essential work should be developed. In fact, we have contended for a long time that our past system under the War Manpower Commission has been entirely too lax, particularly in respect to checks on small non-essential businesses which have, no doubt, employed and are employing without reporting to anybody or without paying very much attention to releases or certificates of availability. A control and check system so that it would apply to all employers would have certainly improved past conditions and would unquestionably have kept in essential war industries many people who have, without releases or certificates of availability, been unessentially employed.

We realize that, no doubt, the immediate effect of a full National Service Law might serve an immediate purpose, but we are afraid. We fear it because we feel that such a law is best suited in fascist and communist countries. We fear it because if enacted only as an emergency measure it, like many other such acts, might leave future objectionable control features in our governmental relationship with American citizens. It might within itself be a stepping stone toward universal regimentation and dictatorship.

We fear it because it could not be operated practically unless it were militarily controlled, and even though we are fighting a war, we do not believe that military control should go any further than necessary in the affairs of the average American citizen.

Even though we feel keenly the need of channeling workers from unessential jobs to essential ones, and even though we are confident that by so doing the war can be brought to an earlier end, we at this time cannot subscribe to a full National Service Law.

On the other hand, we think it is high time that many American people quit paying mere lip service to their patriotism and to their eagerness to bring this war to a victorious conclusion and demonstrate same by their own actions and by their influences over others.

Although we are opposed to the proposed full National Service Law in principle, and believe it is not necessary, we hasten to add that if all other measures short of that fail to provide the necessary production to successfully conduct the war then, of course, we reluctantly say win the war even if it means such a dangerous step.

Safety Classes Resume In February

Due to shortage in personnel and starting of annual Safety contests, it has been necessary for the North Carolina Industrial Commission to postpone activities in connection with Industrial Safety classes for the past two months. Classes will be resumed early in February, and any company interested in having the course is asked to communicate with the Industrial Commission as early as possible.

Instruction in the course covers fundamentals of accident prevention and is especially designed for those in supervisory positions. Classes are held two hours each day for five consecutive days.

The Nazis don't like the V-for-Victory 3-cent stamp used on letters to war prisoners in Germany, Post Office authorities warn.

At the White Oak YMCA, Saturday morning the Sky Raiders trounced the Air Devils to the tune of 39-17. It was a free scoring game all the way up to the last whistle. It ended the first half of the season with the Sky Raiders leading the league without a defeat in six starts. The Raiders have averaged better than 40 points per game. The line-ups for both teams were: Sky Raiders—Spivey 2, Smith 2, Self 15, Caviness 2, and T. Ward 18; Air Devils—Owen 3, B. Smith 4, Camel 8, Sutton 2, and D. Weaver.

In the second game we saw the Star Dusters dust off the Sky Crackers to the score of 35 to 20. Dusters led by "Deadeye" Weaver, who personally racked up 19 points for his team had no trouble from the start of the whistle. Line-ups were: Sky Dusters—B. Weaver 19, B. Ward 2, B. Ritter 8, D. Stone 2, and D. Yow 4; Sky Crackers—W. Cates 6, Thompson 2, B. Stuart 4, B. Mason 6, W. Laughlin 2.

At Rankin school Friday night, Rankin's girls won over Allan Jay's team in one of the closest games this year. The score was tied with only a few seconds to go when Frances Brewer hit the hoop for two points to ice the game 20-18.

The boys walloped an inexperienced Allan Jay quintet to the score of 40-18. Caviness, Stuart and Summers were all high scorers for Rankin. The second string played most of the game. They were W. Cates, J. Camel, B. Weaver, F. Caly and V. Owens.

Greensboro high school breezed over Hanes of Winston-Salem 42 to 22 in an exciting game last Saturday night in the high school gym. Captain Jack Elkins, of Proximity, guided the team to their fourth win of the season in four starts. Jimmy Mann and Ralph Whitley (lanky center of Proximity) led the scoring while Elkins was close behind.

In closing our initial colum, we would like to congratulate one of Rankin high's most promising students who is now at Appalachian State Teachers' College, John Thomas Jones. He played on the varsity while at Rankin and is now playing varsity ball at Appalachian.

Firms Plan Post-War Price Cuts

Scrutinizing every possible means by which the price of goods to the consumer can be reduced after the war, manufacturers in many fields are moving to trim their distribution costs.

A steel company is striking undependable customers from its lists in order to cut costs. A glass company will build factories near centers of consumption to lower transportation charges.

Decisive action of this type must be taken, it is realized, in order to reach the goal industry has set of greater production, expanded economic opportunities and a higher standard of living for all Americans.

A 150-million bushel crop of grain sorghums, principally kafir and milo, is being grown on Southwestern acres which a few years ago were officially consigned to become desert.

Cotton Problems Discussed At State

All phases of problems in cotton production were discussed Tuesday at a meeting at State college, Raleigh, of cotton farmers, fertilizer manufacturers, cottonseed crushers and others interested in cotton production.

It was agreed that all of these agencies must pull together to help produce increased yields of cotton at a lower cost per unit and cotton of superior quality.

Ervin Morgan Jr., of Farmville, presided at the meeting.

Frank Jeter, of State college described the cotton outlook in the southwestern cotton area where growers are cultivating large acreages with the latest equipment and are harvesting the crop with mechanical pickers. Dean Malcolm Campbell, of the textile school, discussed staple requirements of cotton mills for high quality of yarn production.

How results of experimental work may be applied to production of cotton of superior quality at a cheaper cost per pound and the inter-relationship of the various agencies interested in cotton were outlined by Dr. Ralph W. Cummings, head of the agronomy department of the agricultural experiment station, and Dr. Emerson Collins, in charge of agronomy extension.

More Of Our Soldiers

TIME Magazine and other close observers warn us that the fight in Europe may have a long way to go. The Germans are close to their supplies and are fighting for their homeland. Our armies must pipe supplies over a vast ocean and a troublesome continent to keep our men equipped with living and fighting materials.

To have supplies at the front, we must make them at home and make them in record time. Shortages are so acute in the textile field that Lieut-General Brehon Somervell, Chief of the Army Service Forces, has ordered 90 day work furloughs for hundreds of soldiers who are experienced in textile work.

In our Proximity Mill are four soldiers under military orders but responsible to their Overseers for work assignment. They are working shoulder to shoulder with us to produce cotton duck. If you haven't met them, here is who they are:

Pfc. John W. McDonald who worked as a slubber hand in Sanders Cotton Mill at Meridean, Miss., until he was drafted in August of 1942. Pfc. McDonald is acting as a spare hand in the card room. He is thirty-one and has a son, Guy, ten years old.

Pvt. Maurice D. Adams who was drafted out of his job as a weaver for Chicopee Manufacturing company of Gainsville, Ga. He is thirty-two, has been in the army too years, and is the father of two boys and two girls. Pvt. Adams now is weaving tent cloth.

Pvt. Alton D. Chalker Sr., spent 15 years with the Imperial Cotton Mill at Eatonton, Ga. He is thirty-five years old, the daddy of a boy and a girl, and has been in the army about one year. He is acting as Spare Man in Proximity Card Room.

Pvt. Joseph O. Helms is twenty-six and single. Before his induction he was a doffer in the spinning room of the Eastman Cotton Mills at Eastman, Ga., where he had worked for six years. He has been in the army since August 1942.

We want these army men to know that we are glad they are here. They are doing their part — Let us all do ours.

There are six departments listed here with one hundred per cent attendance for the first week in 1945. That is a good start but we can do better. What d'you say?

Plan Rise In Food Output After War

Sixty per cent of the nation's food manufacturers who are members of the Grocery Manufacturers of America are planning on postwar production increases ranging from 10 to 100 per cent over their prewar output, according to James S. Adams, president of Standard Brands, Inc.

A survey just conducted among members of the GMA shows, he said, that not only do the food manufacturers expect to retain all of their extra wartime employees after hostilities cease and rehire those who entered the armed services, but plans alrady have been worked out to rehire other war veterans and provide new jobs for additional workers when the lifting of restrictions permits expanded output.

"The food industry recognizes its obligations to the boys who have served our country during the war," Mr. Adams declared, and its response "also establishes the fact that business itself is best qualified to handle the problem of reemployment most effectively."

The plans of the nation's grocery manufacturers thus emphasize the determination of American business to increase the opportunities for all to earn in the postwar world and likewise to increase the opportunities for all to buy.

Revolutionary New Locomotive

Nine first-class railroads, including four of the largest systems in the country, have joined in research and experiment on a completely new type locomotive that may revolutionize rail transportation.

The roads are jointly spending $1,500,000 on what is to be known as a coal-burning steam turbine electric road locomotive. It is expected to generate 5,400 horse-power, will operate on pulverized coal, and is expected to give increased speed and traction power at a gain in fuel economy.

Roads behind the experiment are the New York Central, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, Chesapeake and Ohio; Reading; Louisville and Nashville; Norfolk and Western; Virginia, and Illinois Central.

Small Business In Free Economy

Small business is essential to a free-enterprise economy, because "free-enterprise economy is impossible unless it expands" and "expansion is impossible unless one has little business," Maury Maverick, chairman and general manager of the Smaller War Plants Corp., told the Harvard Engineering Society.

Urging big business men to fight hard to see that little business survives, Mr. Maverick declared that once little business disappears, totalized forms and some sort of Nazi economy come in.

"People have decided they want a free-enterprise economy," he said. "So do we all. What free-enterprise economy means is competition."

To Hold New Job Exhibit

Implementing the pledge of industry to do all within its power to increase the opportunities for Americans to earn after the war, manufacturers will hold an exhibition February 25 through March 4 in Columbia, S. C., to introduce new jobs in new fields for the post-war consideration of servicemen.

Designed to demonstrate some of the fresh economic opportunities which will be open after the war, the exhibit will be attended by 80,000 men in nearby Army camps and air bases.

Cooperating with exhibiting manufacturers are the University of South Carolina, U.S.O., military authorities and a number of other agencies. Among the groups planning to have exhibits on display are the Willys-Overland Co., the Association of Diesel Engine Manufacturers, the General Electric Co., the Monsanto Chemical Co., some of the plastics industries and the Radio Corp. of America.

Mote Cloth

"How nice it must be to work beside so many cakes;" said the old man to the boy working in the baker's shop. "But don't you feel that you would like to eat some of them?"

"Oh, no, sir," was the reply, "that would be stealing, but I just give 'em a lick now and then."

Speaking of telephones, as nobody was, here's something else to wonder about: Why are wrong numbers never busy?

* * *

The Texas-born Captain of an all-Texas company in North Africa recently told his men—

"Our job here is to promote good neighborliness among other things. We've got to humor the natives. If they say Africa is bigger than Texas, agree."

"An economist," says the Omaha Journal-Stockman, "is a man who knows a great deal about a very little and who goes on knowing more and more about less, until finally he knows practically everything about nothing: whereas, a professor on the other hand, is a man who knows a very little about a great deal and keeps on knowing less and less about more until finally, he knows practically nothing about everything."

Pat: "I say, doctor, did you ever doctor another doctor?"

Doc: "Oh, yes, very often."

Pat: "Well tell me this? Does a doctor doctor a doctor the way the doctored doctor wants to be doctored, or does the doctor doing the doctoring doctor the other doctor according to his own way of doctoring?"

* * *

Patient: "This is my first operation, and I'm terribly nervous.

Young Surgeon: "I know just how you feel. It's my first too."

* * *

A half-drunk bad man entered a railroad coach (in the Wild West) and, flourishing a big six-shooter, said, "I'm gonna rob all the men and kiss all the women."

A determined rancher said, "You can rob all the men, Pardner, but durned if you're gonna kiss the women."

An old maid said to the determined rancher, "You leave that man alone. He's robbin' this train."

Food Firms Give Research Funds

Forty leading food manufacturers have pledged $1,500,000 for independent scientific studies through the Nutrition Foundation of New York.

The funds cover laboratory projects for the first five years, while the Foundation has allocated $500,000 in grants-in-aid to more than 80 colleges.

This independent research is in addition to the direct work carried on by the more than 500 laboratories and control stations maintained by individual food plants.

Veterans To Be Reintegrated

A detailed program to reintegrate Proctor and Gamble employees returning from the armed services, and to place such of the 3,000 as return in their jobs in the shortest possible time, is announced by company officials in Cincinnati.

The plan is based on carefully drawn tentative future organization charts, and specific procedures for retraining.

7 BIG REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD BUY
THE New REDI-CUT TREADLITE FLOORS
A new idea in inlaid, combining the advantages of long wear, easy cleaning and beauty of the famous Nairn Treadlite DeLuxe—inlaid linoleum on duplex felt backing—plus the advantage of the simpler economical installation of easy-to-handle factory-cut units.
1
Genuine Inlaid Linoleum. Thick, extra smooth and long wearing, on a built-in cushioning felt backing. Easy-to-handle 36" Squares and 1" Color Strips are precision-cut at the factory from Nairn Treadlite DeLuxe.
2
So Easy To Install—Almost Anyone Can Do It! Just cement Squares and Color Strips direct to floor—no extra lining felt required, very little cutting—practically no waste. Treadlite cuts easily with tin snips or heavy shears.
3 No Fuss—No Bother. Redi-Cut Treadlite Floors can be installed in a few hours. The room's ready for use 4 hours after finishing. Follow the simple directions and you're assured of a permanent, trouble-free installation.
4
Easy to Clean and Maintain. Your Redi-Cut Treadlite Floor will save you hours of drudgery. Wipe it with a damp cloth and wax occasionally with Nairn Self-Polishing Wax—it will stay new and smart looking for years.
5
Many Gorgeous Colors to Choose From. You'll find your favorites suitable for every room—linoleum colors that go right through to the special felt backing. Contrasting Color Strips give the smart modern tile design.
6
Available now. You can have your Redi-Cut Treadlite Floor today. No waiting—no delays. Just bring your floor measurements to us for a free estimate, and select your favorite color. We'll help you design your floor.
7 Economical. This low price includes the Squares, Color Strips, Cement and Spreader required to do the job. No extras to buy. Easy, simple installation saves you money—or, if you prefer, we'll arrange for installation at a reasonable charge.
